

New Leaf Named Preferred Vendor by JCCs

November 19, 2007

SAINT PAUL, Minnesota — The Jewish Community Centers of North America (JCC Association) has selected New Leaf, the health and fitness brand from Angeion Corporation (NASDAQ: ANGN), as its Preferred Vendor of metabolic assessment systems and cardio training programs for its JCC centers throughout the United States and Canada. As a result, JCC personal training staff will now have access to New Leaf's premier assessment and tracking tools enabling their members to personalize their exercise and nutrition plans and get "Real Results. True Health."

New Leaf will be listed as a Preferred Vendor on the JCC website www.jcca.org. New Leaf's team of metabolic assessment and training experts will also present at upcoming JCC Association educational events and other gatherings.

"The New Leaf Active Metabolic TrainingSM system helps consumers improve fitness, to look and feel their very best," said Rod Young, President and CEO of Angeion Corporation. "These programs provide a roadmap for individuals to achieve their goals through personalized exercise and nutrition plans based on their measured resting and exercise metabolism."

JCC Association is the continental umbrella organization for the Jewish Community Center Movement, which includes more than 350 JCC, YM-YWHA and camp sites in the United States and Canada.
